RELUMINATE

We live in a world of ever increasing disposable goods. Coupled with this is the very real scenario that our natural resources are dwindling and of a definitive supply. Reluminate presents artworks in the form of functional lamps built from almost solely recycled, reused and found materials.

This exhibition aims to provoke thought about what we throw away and what can be created from that. Each work an eclectic composition of unconnected elements, transformed into practical, energy efficient lamps. The results have been described as elegant, quirky, industrial and fun.
